Marigold Industrial® launches tough new high grip glove

For those workers who have grip and dexterity at the top of their wish list where their protective gloves are concerned, Marigold Industrial® has launched the new Latextough L110.

Perfect for detailed handling work and particularly suited for those working on general assembly lines, in the engineering sector, undertaking joinery tasks, installations or steel fixing applications, the natural rubber latex glove with dark green foam palm fit coating for enhanced protection and grip is also highly comfortable and has a number 5 dexterity rating under the EN420 standard.

With superb flexibility and durability, the new L110 is particularly suited to dry working environments, offering optimal grip and a good level of abrasion resistance, in addition to high flexibility and comfort.

The seamless nylon 13 gauge liner and latex knit wrist ensures a snug fit while its ventilated back enhances breath ability by keeping hands cool in warm conditions further enhancing wearer comfort.

Compliant with the standards EN420 (general requirements) and EN388 (mechanical hazards) the Latextough L110 is available in 6 Sizes – 6,7,8,9,10 & 1110 and is supplied in traded units of 12 pairs – 144 pairs in a transit case.

"One of the key complaints that many workers have when it comes to wearing protective gloves is their inability to carry out more detailed work. This can create a situation where there is a temptation for them to remove their gloves to get on with this detailed work, exposing their hands to the risk of injury.

"The new Latextough L110 has been designed to overcome this issue, offering an extremely high degree of dexterity with enhanced grip and comfort. Its high breath ability feature is also an added benefit helping keep hands cool in warm conditions." said John Thorne, UK Country Manager, Marigold Industrial Ltd.
